stole a lot of leaden pipes therefrom. PERSONAL .- Hon. James B. Campbell, after an absence of several months, has returned to the city. Judge Carpenter is reported to be en route. W. H. Trescot, Esq., has been appointed solicitor of the Blue Ridge Railroad Company. Salary $1500 per annum. TURNED UP .- The mystical personage, who was announced in THE NEWS yesterday as having disappeared from Atlantic wharf, leaving behind suspicious clo's of blood and a pistol, has been found. It appeared that he had something to do with one of the vessels, but getting into a scuffle

on the wharf, was taken into custody. Signs of Christmas. - The holiday season is opening early, and advertisers are already begining to call the attention of purchasers to attractive wares in the holiday line. We propose to give an attractive position and descriptive reference to our holiday advertisers this year, and those who desire to do a heavy Christmas business will do well to be soon in the field with their announcements. "The early bird," &c.

TRANSFER OF ARMY OFFICERS .- First Lieu tenant George D. Ramsey, Jr., ordnance department, has been relieved from duty at the Alleghany Arsenal, Pennsylvania, and ordered to refleve Captain S. C. Lyford in command of the Charleston, South Carolina, Arsenal. Captain Lyford has been ordered to report to General Halleck, commanding the military division of the

THE ETIWAN ACCIDENT .- The three commissioners appointed by the jury of inquest over the body of John F. Williams, to examine into the state of the exploded boiler at the Etiwan works, were busily engaged yesterday. An examination of the flues shows that they have each been mashed as flat as a knife blade. Only a few bricks have been displaced. The other boiler, just alongside of its exploded mate, has not been worked since the accident.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY .- A second attempt to break into the residence of Edward Lafitte, Esq., on Rutledge avenue, was made on Sunday night, about 10 o'clock. On the first occasion the burgiars endeavored to move the side lights, in tending thereby to reach the key and unlock the door. They would have been foiled, however, by the absence of the key. On the last occasion they attempted to pry the bolt back with a chisel, but being doubtless disturbed, they suddenly suspended operations and decamped.

CAUTION .- We are informed that for nearly two weeks a large number of James Island negroes have been lounging in Charleston, without any apparent means of support. 'Satan still finds mischief for idle hands to do," and it is not hitherto pouring its products into the lap of New neonle to be reasonable to believe all of these laz so strictly conscientions that they would turn their backs on an opportunity to plunder. If behooves our citizens, therefore, to look well to their door-fastenings, front halls, back yards and chicken coops. Example seems to have little effect on these rascals. A thimble full of powder and a leaden pellet is worth a cargo of moral is was it is at present administered.

GERMAN ENTERPRISE There are no people who more quietly yet effectually accomplish their purposes than the Germans, la war and in peace, socially and commercially, whatever their wright hand findeth to do it doeth it with allits might." There seems to be a mutual dependence on each other, out of which grow not only the domestic virtues, but a public spirit always equal to the demands of an emergency. To illustrate: It is well-known that the Freuudschaftsbund are about completing a beautiful edifice, which is shortly to be dedicated to the objects of the society. A Tew days ago, however, it was discovered that about five-thousand dollars more than had been provided for, were required to meet certain expenses. What was done? In eight hours after the want was made known, every dollar of the above-named amount was subscribed, and in all probability it could have been doubled. When it is remembered that within two years, and chiefly within the last year, a hundred thousand dollars have been paid for a church and public hall, that five thousand dollars have been sent to Germany for the benefit of the wounded. and twelve thousand dollars paid by the Schutzen Club for their beautiful grounds up the road, it well filled with the best rifle powder, and an will be conceded that this display of the best attributes of true citizenship has not been sur-

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONER .- Thomas Brown and Moses Reed were brought before the commissioner yesterday morning charged with voting under age. After an examination they were committed, in default of bail, to the Charleston fall to await their trial at the January term of the District Court.

Shadrack Bryant, Samuel Smalls and Sandy Alek, managers of election at Rice Hope polis, St. Peter's Parish, in Beaufort County, were brought up for illegal management at the polls. The evidence fully sustained the charge, and in default of ball the trio were marched off to jail to await the verdict of a jury at the January term of the District Court.

Alexander Washington was examined on a charge of rioting and intimidating voters at the recent election, and no bail being found was sent to ruminate over the evil consequences of his deeds in the Charleston jail, where he will make his exit in January to be presented to a jury at

E. P. Stoney was brought up for not swearing voters at the polls, where he was a manager, in the recent elections. The charge was sustained, but Stoney produced his ball and was dismissed to appear for trial at the next term of the District

THE USURY LAWS.

The following memorial against the proposed revival of the usury laws of the State is about to be submitted to the General Assembly, on the part of the Chamber of Commerce of Charleston:

Memorial of the Chamber of Commerce.

sentatives of the State of South Carolina:
The Charleston Chamber of Commerce respectfully present to your honorable body, the following considerations against the proposition to revive legislative interference in this State in the matter of the rate of interest chargeable for the natter of the rate of interest chargeable for the se of money. In 1866, this Chamber united with the Board of Trade in urging upon the Legislature the abroga-tion of laws erroneously styled "laws for presen-tion of usury," and in a memorial then prepared expressed the sense of the mercantile world as expressed the sense of the increases of the new of othe evils of such restrictions upon the flow of apital, and the operation of the natural law of supply and the open The sounds and demand. The soundness of the views then expressed, and the wisdom of the act entitled "an act to repeal the usury law of this State," have been so fully confirmed by the experience of the entire business community, as to the effect of that repeal, that this Chamber feels it to be due to the people of the State, to place upon record the verdict of that experience, as a safeguard against all future attempts to revive such unwise and unnatural restrictions.

The only class who will profit by laws limiting the legal rate of interest on special contracts for the loan of money is the usurer class, the men who, for the use of the money they lend, charge the borrower a premium for the risk they incur by lending for a rate above the legal rate, and who thus secure a monopoly of high profits extorted from the necessities of the borrower. The elect of the repeal of those laws has been to break up that monopoly, and to bring all who have money to invest or lend, in wholesome competition with the usurer class, compelling the rates to be lowered to the line established by the laws of demand and supply.

Before the repeal, capital was so scarce in South Garolina that money commanded five per cent. per month, and sometimes more. Encouraged, as your memorialist really believe, by the removal of these restrictions capital has since another way. The only class who will profit by laws limiting per month, and sometimes more. Encouraged, as your memoralist really believe, by the removal of these restrictions, capital has since sought every corner of profitable employment, in trade, agriculture and mechanical industry in South Carolina, and a steady decline in the rates of interest has taken place from that time to this day, when money is freely loaned at one per cent. per month, with a tendency to still lower rates of interest. Revive these unwise laws, and the inevitable result will follow of a stringent money market, a refusal of loans to the factor, merchant and mechanic contractor—nearting directly to check all refusal of loans to the factor, merchant and me-chanic contractor—operating directly to check all enterprises for the coming year, and immediately to lower the rate of wages to all taborers. Capital will seek other fields of investment where it is not denied a fair and lawful competi-tion, and the prosperity of the entire community of Scath Carolina will be materialy nostoned in of South Carolina will be materialy postponed point of time and relatively to others. Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT MORE,
President Chamber of Commerce.

A Touching Picture. - Much attention was attracted yesterday by a new chromo displayed in the window of Russell's book store. It is entitled "The Lost Cause," and represents the return of a confederate soldier at the close of the war to the desolate ruin of what was once his humble but happy home. The scene in all its adjuncts is full of expression and sadly real.

MASONIC .- At the regular communication of Lebanon Lodge, No. 48, A. F. M., held at Masonic Hall, December 3, 1870, the following officers were elected for the ensuing Masonic year: J. R. Fulmore, W. M.; W. J. M. Lee, S. W.; Josiah Cockfield, J. W.; John Frierscn, treasurer; R. Y. H. Lee, secretary; S. L. Rodgers, S. D.; A. T. Rodgers, J. D.; J. McKnight, E. T. Moody, stewards; G. E. G. Cox, tiler.

ON THE PROMENADE .- King street in its palmiest days was not more picturesque with fashionable life than it appeared yesterday. Every beautiful woman in Charleston seemed to be out for a walk, and the air echoed with a conversational melody fresh as the twitter of birds. Shop windows were kaledelscopic with bright colors; the toilettes were unimpeachable; fair connoisseurs found an ample field for observation; beaux were in demand; bachelors looked less misanthropic, and everybody appeared to feel glad that "he, she and it" were born.

OUR CONNECTIONS WITH THE MISSISSIPPI VALLEY.—The gratifying announcement is made that the bridge over the Alabama River, on the Western Railroad, between Montgomery and Selma, has been crossed for the first time since its completion. The chain of connection from Charleston to Vicksburg and the Mississippi Valley is now complete, and through cotton from that rich section can and will be shipped direct, via Charleston, without breaking bulk. The opening of this direct communication with one of the richest cotton producing sections of the South, Orleans, is of the greatest importance to Charleston and her commercial standing as the second seaport of the South. The tedlous process of shipment, via the Mississippi to New Orleans, will gradually change into an expeditious overland transportation in this direction. THE OBSTRUCTIONS IN OLD TOWN CREEK-RAPID BLASTING-THE CHANNEL CLEAR.-The work of removing the obstructions in Old Town or Shipyard Creek, which was commenced a few weeks ago, has been pushed forward with unt ring energy, and the efforts of the contractor, Mr. John D. Griffin, have met with the most encouraging success. Yesterday morning the old zunboat, which had been lying at ease for a number of years in a soft bed of mud, was rudely aroused by the explosion of a thundering charge of powder, and the wreck now lies on the mud on the opposite side of the creek. The contractor has with him for the work two flats, one a pile-driver, and the other fitted with a large derrick on the bow for hoisting the heavy masses of wreck, which are too heavy to noat. The necessity for the latter part of the work has been almost entirely superseded, however, by the sound condition of the decks and timbers, which float off as soon as they are blown away from the other portions of the wreck and relieved from the masses of mud that have settled upon them. The modus operandi seems to be very simple and is as follows. A large tin can, very similar to a kerosene oil can, is made perfectly air-tight, of a capacity to contain fully forty-five pounds of powder. This is iron tube fifteen feet long is inserted in the mouth of the can, through which tube runs the slow match. The can is then carefully wrapt with twine and canvas, or what the sailors call "parcelling," particularly about the mouth where the tube enters, and over the whole three or four coats of hot pitch are applied. The can is now ready for operation, and the flats which generally lie above the wreck are removed as soon as a suitable place for a blast is found. This place is marked by a pole, and two men in a boat carry out the infernal machine and sink it in the chosen spotwhether on the top or side of the wreck matters not, as long as there is plenty of water above it. When in position the fuse is lighted, and the men row quietly back to watch the result. The steady curl of smoke from the end of the tube, some three feet above the water, shows that the fire is still burning, and at the end of 4% minutes, a time when every one thinks it is about to go out, the explosion takes place. An immense column of foaming water is thrown upward fifteen or twenty feet, and a dull rumbling noise bellows around the shore and stirs the workmen to a cheer. Huge pieces of timber and fragments of plank stream, and makes the water as dingy as the Styx is popularly supposed to have been. The fish in the immediate vicinity are often stunned by the explosions and rise to the surface of the water. Several fine ones have been captured in this way. Most of the wreck disengaged and brought up by the blast soon doats down the river. That which sinks again has to be raised and carried off. Another place is then chosen, and another blast prepared. This work has been prosecuted with such unremitting energy, that the channel of the creek is now entirely clear, and the only object left for moval of a part of the old dry dock near the shore, directly opposite the Etiwan Works. This will be accomplished in less than two weeks, and the contractor, Mr. Griffia, deserves much praise for the enterprise with which he has conducted the business. He employs about six men with him in the work. The vast debris of timbers, beams, ribs, decks, &c., on the mud banks just below the Phosphate-Works, shows how industriously they have labored.

AMUSEMENTS.

Academy of Music-The Blondes. Lisa Weber's Troupe of British Blondes opened ast night at the Academy to a fair house. The audience was put at once in a good humor by the capital manner in which the opening farce of "The Laughing Hyena" was given by Miss Hattie O'Neal and Miss Cassie Troy, with Messrs. Vincent and Atkins; and by the time the serious fun of the evening began, a perfect entente cordiale had been established between the house and the actors. The musical burlesque of Ernani preserves but few of the leading features of the famous opera, but those few are skilfully combined into a very agreeable and entertaining comedietta. There is the usual allowance of puns-some good enough, and some bad enough to be much better and the songs and chorusses that are introduced. (among them the ever-popular "Shoo Fly," give room for pienty of spirited singing and dancing. Passing from the play to the performance, we can honestly say that present troupe is among the best in many respects which has trod the burlesque boards of the Academy this season. Miss Lisa Weber, the prima donna, is pretty and piquante a clever actress and a graceful dancer, with a clear and melodious voice, and a natural off-hand manner which "takes" remarkably well. She is capitally supported-the troupe playing into each others hands with an ease and a smoothness which deserves al! praise. Mr. Atkins's feats of agility were really surprising, and his "get-ups" absurd enough for all possible purposes. Mr. Vincen 's stilt dance also merits especial mention. And, finally, the costumes of the principal performers were gorgeous in the extreme. Altogether, "The Blondes" are not behind their reputation, and will no doubt prove a very successful engagement. To-night "La Sonnambula" is announced, with a strong cast.

H:bernian Hall-The Minstrels. We have no hesitation in pronouncing the entertainment of the Skiff & Gaylord Minstrels at the above hall last evening the best of the kind ever given in Charleston. The Albinos were a decided uccess, and Mr. Low Gaylord deserves eminect credit for the happy invention whereby twentyfour cosmopolitans have been transmogrified into lively specimens of first-class sculpture. In the first portion of the entertainment, every member of the company, from the crown of his head to the sole of his foot, was white to a degree that a ghost would appear disgustingly pale in his presence. In this condition they favored the audience with some fine music, instrumental, sentimental and comic, and interspersed the performance with a lively dialogue that kept the audience in the best possible humor. Low Gaylord, a host in himself, has evidently selected first class artists, and whatever they do, be it in song, dance or burlesque, is done with commendable vim, faithfulness and propriety. Tyrrell, the tenor; Bldaux, the baritone; Lang, the falsetto; Stiles and Phelps, the statuesque clogdancers: Harry Talbot, the inimitable "end" man and jokist, and Bertholon, with his extremely high tragedy and "cremona" banjo, each received deserved encores. Finally, the dissolving views introduced by Professor Schaffer were alone worth the price of admission, and suited every taste. The audience manifested their approval from the beginning to the close of the performance. The troupe appears again this evening in an entirely new programme, and should draw a crowded house.

THE BARNWELL JOURNAL .- Mr. John S. Shuck, the enterprising proprietor of this flourishing interior paper, is in the city for a few days, and will call on our merchants on business connected with his paper.

RUTLEDGE AVENUE. This most desirable street, on which are some of the finest private residences in Charleston, is greatly sought after our west end, and as a consequence residences and vacant lots when offered, which is very rare, command better prices than in other locations. The sale of the wooden residence opposite Bee street yesterday, for $10,000, is confirmatory of the opinion we have expressed.

CRUMBS .- Jeff Williams was turned over yesterday morning to the State for prosecution for assaulting Jeffry Holmes. Eight males and eight females, candidates for baptismal rites, were immersed on St noon in the Ashley River, at the foot of Tradd street, by the Rev. J. Legare.

Francis Jenkins, confined on charges of burglary, larceny and vagrancy, is still held for ex-

LOOK OUT FOR CHRISTMAS TURKEYS .- Albert Mercer was taken under the protection of the law vesterday afternoon by Officers Quinn, Burke and Davis, charged with the larceny of seven turkeys from the premises of Mr. Joshua Toomer, of Mon't Pleasant. Four of the turkeys were recovered and taken to the detective office, where they are waiting to be claimed by their owner. Albert is held for examination, and will probably spend his Christmas in a public institution and dine at the expense of the city.
